

Baseball Blogging Gets A Facelift -- MajorLeagueBlogging.com

Major League Blogging is any serious baseball fan's dream come true. It's a place where true fans of baseball can come and talk about the sport they love. At Major League Blogging they tell it like it is, rumors, trades, breaking news, you name it, they cover it.

Wantagh, New York (PRWEB) February 22, 2009 -- New Major League Baseball blog promises to be a breathe of fresh air in the often dry baseball blogosphere.

MajorLeagueBlogging.com promises to give both avid and casual baseball fans news and updates that are both informative and insightful. Baseball news, updates, rumors, trades, scores, and general ramblings are amongst the topics covered on a daily basis.

When asked what will make MajorLeagueBlogging.com so different from other baseball blogs, one of the owners and primary author, Jeffrey Gross, replied, "We plan on putting a whole new spin on how baseball news is presented. We want to take those often dry and boring stories and transform them into something any fan will truly enjoy digesting." In other words, Gross concluded, his goal is to make this blog absolutely addictive for baseball enthusiasts.

When asked to say a little about the future plans for the blog, and how he plans to expand and grow with its fan base, Gross responded, "We are currently interviewing super fans of various baseball teams in order to capture their perspective and encourage comments from other fans. We will be sure to cover all of our bases (yes, pun intended)."

The future certainly looks bright for MajorLeagueBlogging.com, as it promises to deliver content that can cater to all levels of fans. All too often a blog or website is focused on only one type of fan, this project will seemingly deliver to both.

Gross encourages baseball fans of all ages and expertise to come take a look at the newly launched blog. As an added incentive to visit, Gross indicated that he will be giving away opening day tickets to three lucky followers of the blog. The winners will be picked at random on March 1, 2009. To be eligible, a visitor only needs subscribe to the website using a valid email address. Gross advises "Be sure to include a valid email address as we are informing all winners via email."

<http://www.MajorLeagueBlogging.com>

###

Contact Information

Jeff Gross

MajorLeagueBlogging.com

<http://www.MajorLeagueBlogging.com>

516-860-9528

<http://www.MajorLeagueBlogging.com>

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.

PRWebPodcast Available

Listen to Podcast MP3 Listen to Podcast iTunes Listen to Podcast OGG